

WAYNE PADDON

Wayne Paddon, 10 Lynhurst Park Drive, head of the history department at AVSS, has received word that he has been granted a graduate assistantship by the University of Toronto where he will study for his M.A. in history and educational theory next term.

Mr. Paddon has been given a substantial lease for the 1969-70 school year by the Elgin County Board of Education. He has taught in St. Thomas schools for 17 years and has been the head of the history department at AVSS for the last five years. He has been a part-time lecturer in economics at Althouse College of Education for the past four winters.

Mr. Paddon is co-author of a secondary school and university text book recently published by the Oxford Book Company called "Approaches to Teaching Local History."

He is a graduate of the St. Thomas Collegiate, London Teacher's College, the university of Western Ontario, Ontario College of Education and Althouse College of Education.

A St. Thomas resident for most of his life, Mr. Paddon is married to the former Lois Tanner and the couple have three children.
